Marks Awarded

Anne (A)

My name is Anne and I live with my husband. We have an apartment close to the beach. I walk to work. I am a nurse in a hospital. I work every weekday morning and sometimes at the weekend. I love my job because I help people. I like watching cooking programmes on the television, but I don't usually cook. My husband does the cooking. I enjoy visiting other countries. Next summer I'm going to France for the first time.

Bobby (B)

I'm Bobby and I live in a small house with my dog. I love swimming in the sea, but the beach is a long way from my home. I work in an office from Monday to Friday. I always drive there. I don't enjoy my job because it's not very interesting. At the weekend I see my friends. I enjoy cooking and I often make dinner for them. I am keen on travelling. Last year I went to France on holiday.

Jane and the Chimpanzees

Jane Goodall knows everything about chimpanzees. When she was a baby, her father gave her a toy chimpanzee called Jubilee. Jane loved this toy the most. At aged eight, she read the Dr Doolittle books at school, which made her want to learn about chimpanzees. When she was ten, Jane read Tarzan of the Apes. After this, she knew she wanted to visit Africa. At aged 23, she finally had enough money to travel to Africa to stay with a friend and study chimpanzees.

Chimpanzees are a type of great ape. Apes are not the same as monkeys; apes are bigger and have no tail. Every day Jane quietly watched the chimpanzees. She sat on the ground with them. She watched them clean each other and eat insects. One day, Jane saw a chimpanzee with a thin piece of wood in his hand. He made a small hole in a termite nest. The insects climbed onto the wood, and the chimpanzee used it like a spoon. Before that, scientists thought that only people used tools.

Jane started studying chimpanzees in 1960, 60 years ago. At that time, there were 600,000 chimpanzees in Africa. Now there are 220,000. In 2030, there will probably be only 100,000. Jane is still doing everything she can to help them.

For questions 1-3, please answer in complete sentences. (2 marks each)

1. How old was Jane when she first became interested in chimpanzees?

2. How are apes different from monkeys?

3. For how long has Jane studied chimpanzees?
