The Jim Twins

The story of identical twin brothers, Jim Lewis and Jim Springer, is truly amazing. They were born in 1939 and adopted by different families four weeks later. Jim Lewis grew up knowing he had a twin brother, although he had no information about him. Jim Springer believed his brother had died at birth, so never attempted to find out where he lived.

In 1977, Lewis, who was 37 at the time, finally decided to try and locate his brother. Two years later, shortly after his 39th birthday, Springer received a letter from the local authorities, explaining that he had a twin brother who wanted to meet him. Springer immediately phoned his brother and they met a few days later. At the reunion both twins were excited to learn about each other.

They discovered they had led surprisingly similar lives and had only grown up 45 miles apart. At school both enjoyed sport, were excellent at maths and poor at spelling. They had both been married twice, their first wives were both called 'Linda' and their second wives 'Betty'. They named their first sons 'James Alan'. They even went on holiday to the same beach. The list of similarities was endless. The brothers looked the same, except for their hair. While both had dark brown hair, Lewis's was long and straight, while Springer's was shorter and curly. They were the same height and, although one looked fatter than the other, both weighed 85 kilogrammes.

Thomas Bouchard, a psychologist and geneticist at the University of Minnesota, was fascinated by their story and began a 20-year study of twins. He studied twins that were separated at birth, including the 'Jim Twins', as well as twins who were brought up together. He found that twins separated at birth were likely to be just as similar to each other as those who had grown up in the same family.

In questions 1-3, please answer in complete sentences. (2 marks each)

1. Why did Jim Springer never look for his brother?

2. How old were the Jim twins when they were reunited?

3. What kind of twins did Thomas Bouchard compare in his study?

Read the five short texts below, which are all descriptions of places to go on holiday. Choose from the texts (A to E) and complete the answer grid. The texts may be chosen more than once. One has been done for you as an example.

Marks Awarded

A. Experience the wild beauty of the island, and visit the wonderful ancient Roman ruins which still remain along the west coast. The 13th century village of Santa Anna is amazingly preserved, with several hostels offering basic but inexpensive accommodation. It's rare to find somewhere so unspoilt by modern hotels and package holidays.

B. The beautiful clear waters of Carla Bay are perfect for those of you who want to get into the sea and have some fun. We are the best-rated dive site on the island, with a wide range of activities, including kite-surfing, scuba-diving and sailing. We also offer paddle-boarding for those who prefer a more relaxing activity.

C. This is an amazing holiday, packed full of discovery, nature and activity. Up in the mountains, away from the heat and stress of the crowded holiday beaches, you will have the chance to follow the mountain paths at your leisure. If you're lucky, you might see foxes or red deer, goats or even a bear. Bring your binoculars – they can be hard to spot.

D. For those of you who like variety, a multi-centre trip is the perfect solution. With no more than two nights in the same hotel, we have a choice of destinations to choose from. You can visit the museums of Madrid on Monday, then walk in the mountains on Wednesday and the markets of Barcelona on Friday. There's never a dull moment on one of our holidays.

E. There are several hotels along the coast of Belamar which cater for visitors with young families. Competitively priced, they offer a range of kids' clubs and activity centres to keep your little ones occupied, leaving you time to relax on the sun lounger, reading your favourite book or sunbathing. You may even find enough energy to walk across the sand for a gentle swim. Perfect!
