Dear Paul,

How are you? I am visiting my friends in London. They have a great flat in the north of the city. We go to the park in the evening. My friends have a big dog. His name is Max. He frightens me. In the park, Max chases the ducks.

In the morning, we often go to the centre of London. We go by train because there are a lot of cars on the roads. We sometimes go to the museums but I think they're boring. We love London Zoo because there are a lot of funny animals. My favourite animals are the hippos but my friends like the giraffes.

See you soon,
Tom

Last Friday was Peter's 11th birthday. He went to his aunt's house with his family. On Saturday, he had a party with his friends. They went to the park because Peter doesn't like cafés and the cinema was closed. He invited 15 friends but 12 came because three children were ill. They put a big blanket on the grass, near the swings, and sat on it because there weren't any chairs. Peter's friends gave him presents. He got a watch, a scarf, a toy robot and a puzzle. He liked the robot best. After that, they played games with balloons and had some pizza and lemonade. The party finished at 4 pm and Peter gave everyone a cake. They took the cakes home.
