My job is very hard but I do what I want at the weekend. For my holidays, I walk in the mountains in my country. When I am walking, I have new ideas about teaching. I like my job and I want to be a teacher for a long time.

Anthony (A)

I live in a big city and I work in an office. I go to work by bus every day. I eat breakfast before I leave the house. My job is busy and I often have to work on Saturday and Sunday. The World's Most Venomous Snake

There are 600 kinds of venomous, or poisonous, snake in the world. The most venomous snake of all is the Inland Taipan. There is enough venom in an Inland Taipan's bite to kill 100 adult men. This snake is dark green and brown. An adult snake can grow to over two metres from its head to its tail.

The Inland Taipan is extremely venomous, but it is not very dangerous to humans. This is because it is shy. It usually escapes if there is any trouble. It does not live near humans and only lives in empty parts of Australia. The African Black Mamba, a less venomous snake, is more dangerous because it lives near humans and often attacks them.

The Inland Taipan sometimes tries to scare away an animal or human that gets close. It lifts its head and body as high as it can. Then it doesn't move. Unlike King Cobras or Rattlesnakes, it doesn't hiss or make a noise. It eats mice and rats, which it kills by biting many times very quickly.

For a long time, nobody knew much about the Inland Taipan because it spends the daytime underground, especially in summer. However, scientists have now studied the snake and have learned many about it. The Inland Taipan becomes black in the winter to help it stay warm from the heat of the sun. It lays its eggs in the summer months.

For questions 1-3, please answer in complete sentences. (2 marks each)

1. How long can an Inland Taipan grow?

2. In what country does the Inland Taipan live?

3. How does the Inland Taipan kill small animals?
