Queen of Clean

Marie Kondo is an organising expert who invented the popular Konmari method of tidying. Kondo was born in Tokyo in 1984 and was interested in tidying from a young age. In primary school, unlike her classmates, who were mostly interested in sports, she preferred tidying bookshelves in the classroom. Over the years, she realised that there was an art or skill to tidying. She eventually developed Konmari while she was a 19-year-old student. At the same time, she began her own business, which focuses on this philosophy.

Kondo believes that Konmari helps people be happier by only keeping a small number of objects. This logical method has several stages. The first is to go through the house section by section, and then organise things into categories. Finally, only keep the items you really like and discard the others.

Her 2011 book, The Life Changing Magic of Tidying Up, was extremely popular in Japan and Europe. Her Instagram account soon had 3.3 million followers. Kondo's book also became a huge success in the USA, where it was first published in 2014. She was given a Netflix show after selling 1.2 million copies there. The show had 1.5 million viewers within one month. Following the show's release in January 2019, there was a huge increase in donations of unwanted items to charity shops as people tidied their homes.

Kondo believes that respecting objects leads to an organised life and an organised mind. She explains that Konmari developed as a result of the Shinto religion, with its basic principles of cleanliness. However, since marrying and having children, she admits her own house can sometimes be untidy. Her daughters are too young to really understand about tidying, but she says they will soon learn. At the moment she says, 'I have to accept the fact that I don't have a lot of time and that's OK.'

In questions 1-3, please answer in complete sentences. (2 marks each)

1. When did Marie Kondo start her business?

2. What happened as a result of Marie Kondo's Netflix show?

A. I'm a regular customer of yours and recently bought a small gas barbecue for my camping holiday in France. When it arrived, it wasn't up to my expectations. The packaging was damaged and the cover was broken. I immediately contacted you and left a message but have had no response. Please send me a new model or give me a refund. The level of service I have received is unacceptable.

B. I've just arrived home and received your email. I've almost finished the kitchen design but I've been ill for a few weeks and wasn't able to complete it earlier. I promise I will have it ready for you to look at next Friday at the latest. Contact me if this isn't convenient.

C. It's lovely to receive your letter and to know how happy you are living back in London after so many years in the USA. I'd really like to get together after all this time and exchange news. I work in the city near St. Paul's Cathedral and could meet you for lunch any time next week. Is your favourite café still there? If so, just book a table and let me know what time to meet. See you very soon, I hope.

D. My friend got one of the latest fitness watches in the sales last week. He only paid 50% of the original price! The design is beautiful and typical of the brand. It's so easy to use and it also has a heart rate monitor. I really want one too, so I raced into town last night after work, but the sale is over and they're so expensive at full price. I'm really annoyed!

E. I have some happy news. Tim and I have got married! We had a small wedding, but wanted to go somewhere romantic for our honeymoon, so we chose Bali. The island was even better than we expected and I'd tell everyone to go there at least once in their lifetime. We're planning to have a party soon to celebrate our marriage. I'll be in touch.
