A Dog Detective

One Sunday morning, Ben was walking his puppy, Larson. After a while, Ben sat on a bench for a break and noticed that Larson was carrying something in his mouth. It wasn't an old ball or plastic bottle as usual, but a shiny necklace. Ben followed Larson to a nearby bush, and under it he saw a handbag filled with jewellery, including a gold watch, diamond bracelet and some old gold coins.

Ben picked the bag up. He thought about taking it home, but instead he took it to his friend Robert, who was a police officer. When Robert opened his front door, he invited Ben in for a coffee. Robert called the police station where he worked and told them about the jewellery.

On Tuesday afternoon, Ben received a phone call from the police, who said the jewellery was stolen from a house in the town centre. The thieves hid the jewellery on Saturday evening, just after they stole it, hoping to collect it later. The owner of the house was away for the weekend. Her name was Hannah and she reported the burglary on Monday morning, when she returned home from Paris.

Before Hannah had the jewellery, it belonged to her grandmother. It was very important to Hannah. She was really pleased to get it all back, particularly the bracelet, which she had always loved. She wanted to buy Larson a ball as a reward, but as he already had lots of toys, she bought him a huge steak for his dinner. She even gave Ben a box of biscuits and a gold coin to say thank you.

For questions 1–3, please answer in complete sentences. (2 marks each)

1. Where was the handbag found?

2. What did Ben do with the jewellery after he found it?

3. Where was Hannah when the burglary happened?
