Marks Awarded

Amanda (A)

I'm Amanda and I live with my husband and two sons. I like dogs but we don't have any because my husband is afraid of them. I work in a shop and get there by bus. I work every Saturday and sometimes on Sundays. I enjoy reading and painting but I've never been keen on sport. My husband and I like cooking and we often eat food from different countries. This year we're going on holiday to Spain.

Barnaby (B)

I'm Barnaby and I live with my parents and our two dogs. I go by car to my office at 8 am and return home at 6 pm. It's a long day but I don't work at the weekend. In the evenings, I sometimes play football. I'm also a member of a cricket team. My mother is a good cook but I can't cook anything. For my holiday, I'll stay with my grandparents, who live in the countryside near us.

The Scillies

The Scillies, which are 45 kilometres from the south-west coast of Britain, are a group of 145 small islands. Sometimes the level of the sea water is low enough to get from one island to another on foot. People only live on five of the islands now. In the past there were some people on others. For example, three families of farmers and fishermen used to live on Samson. They left in 1855 because they were very poor. Tourists can visit all the islands, but one of them, Annet, closes from April to August to protect the environment.

The Scillies are popular with people who appreciate nature, especially in October, when many birds arrive from abroad. The warm climate means there is rarely snow. From March to November a boat goes from the Scillies to Penzance, a town on the mainland. There is a plane from March to October and a helicopter all year.

Children attend school on the Scillies until they are 16. There is one school on Saint Mary's, which is the biggest island. Children from other islands stay there from Monday to Friday in a boarding house, where they sleep and eat their meals. From the age of 16 to 18 they go to school in Penzance. The government pays for their flights and helps with the cost of somewhere to stay.
